Kick the habit with laughs

■ Joanna Delalande

Beloved stand-up comedian Kevin Kropinyeri will be punctuating an anti-smoking message with laughs during a visit to Kalgoorlie-Boulder next week.

The Aboriginal comedian and former smoker was invited by Bega Garnbirringu Health Services to tour Kalgoorlie-Boulder as part of an anti-smoking campaign.

From December 3-7, Kropinyeri will record anti-smoking media promotions and perform at Bega's staff appreciation lunch.

Bega regional tobacco co-ordinator Sachin Khara said the comedian's high profile would make it easier for the organisation to spread its message.
