How tobacco use is tracking against ‘big picture’ goals

n.p. = not publishable

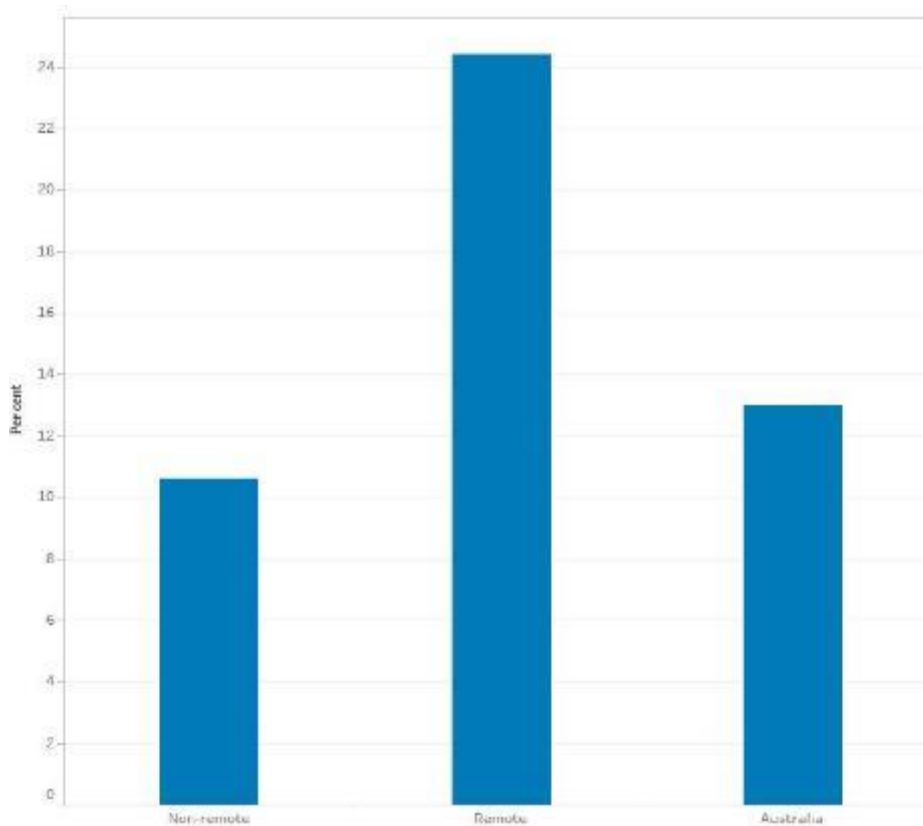

Notes

1. Some rates are not published because of confidentiality and/or reliability reasons - see the source data tables for more information.
2. Crude rates are presented for Indigenous Australian women only. Age-standardised rates should be used for comparisons between Indigenous and non-Indigenous Australian women.
